-“El pescado en Chile se paga de contado”...

-“o como tú quieras”...

The slide features a white background with a decorative border of small grey dots. A yellow ribbon-like shape runs along the top and left edges, and a large yellow curved shape is in the top right corner.

Thank You!
